General concepts of quality assurance

- Two crucial purposes of quality assurance: enhancement and accountability
- Accountability vs. mere responsibility
- Cyclical nature of quality assurance (e.g. PDCA cycle)
- Quality assurance systems must have specific goals and it must be checked whether the goals are achieved -> There is no ideal blueprint!
- Quality control vs. quality assurance vs. quality culture

QUALITY ASSURANCE POLICY & IMPLEMENTATION

QA Strategy and Policy

- Not all HEIs could outline clear objectives and a coherent policy for their quality assurance system -> should have top priority
- Additional necessary steps:
 - Periodic review of quality assurance policy
 - Involvement of all relevant stakeholders, particularly students

Implementation

- Quality assurance systems are in place
- Room for improvement: involvement of students and non-academic staff, institutional self-evaluation, clear focus on quality enhancement

QUALITY ASSURANCE OF STUDY PROGRAMMES

ESG 1.2: Design and approval of programmes

- All HEIs have established formal processes to initiate new programmes
- Room for improvement: involvement of faculties and management level, participation of students and teaching staff besides full professors

ESG 1.9: On-going monitoring and periodic review of programmes

- All institutions have periodic review processes, typically every five years. One institution mentions another small review every year (good practice)
- Room for improvement: involvement of graduates, matching between programme objectives and curricula

STUDENTS' PERSPECTIVE

Co-funded by the

ESG 1.1. Policy for QA

- All HEIs include their students at the management level (departments and faculties?).
- The participation of students => mostly through surveys (alternative options?).
- General awareness of the benefits of including the students (negative feedback!).

ESG 1.3. Student-centred learning (+ teaching)

- The students are familiar with the learning outcomes and have an option to monitor those (+ teachers implement new concepts).
- Inclusion of students with special needs and physical disabilities.

STAFF PERSPECTIVE

ESG 1.5.

- General mixed answers in all fields.
- Sufficient amount of personnel - technical and administrative staff is slightly overlooked.
- Ensuring the sufficient qualification of staff members and continuous professional development.
- Who is involved in the curriculum design?

EQA & AUTHORITIES

HEIs` autonomy

- Different assessment of their autonomy (public vs. private).
- Too many regulations?

EQA procedures

- Favourable views of ANACEC`s EQA procedures, trainings, and support.
- More work needs to be done on groups of experts.
- Quality control vs. quality assurance & enhancement.

EQA & AUTHORITIES

ANACEC and MECR

The issue of diminished independence:

1. Who is in charge of revising and changing the methodology of external evaluation?
2. Who takes the final decisions?

ESG 3.3!

+

Code of Education, Article 115. n) - EQAR

CONCLUSIONS

1. The systems and procedures of IQA are in place – the next step is to amplify an existing quality culture.
2. Compliance with standards vs. quality enhancement.
3. Strengthening existing models before introducing new ones. + Pilot accreditations.
4. Exchange of good practices and advice between institutions.
